

Protocol in case of a young saluki dying unexpectedly

In order to find out as much as possible about the condition, we need to know about individual deaths if we are to make sense of the statistics, and monitor progress and influence change to reduce or eliminate the number of deaths in the future. In the highly unlikely event that your young saluki does die suddenly of no apparent cause please follow the guidelines below.

There are two downloadable PDF documents on this link. They are also available by telephone (01895 255341) from the Breed Health Coordinator maya.monk@btinternet.com

1. Please download the forms. Complete the questionnaire and send it to the SGHC Breed Health Coordinator (call 01895 255341 for address details)
2. We would seriously advise you to have a post mortem carried out. Please ask your vet to work in line with the instruction on the second form. Some costs may be paid by the SGHC. Please advise the Breed Health Coordinator what costs are involved, who will then seek approval for the veterinary services provided.
This and all aspects of the procedures will be dealt with in the strictest confidence.

Your help in this matter is much appreciated.
